DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 39-44 and 47-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DE-10050013 (DE'013) in view of US Patent 4273129 to Boebel..

Re: claims 39, 40, 42-44, 47-51, and 53. DE'013 shows in figures 4a-c a brake pad assembly comprising a brake pad 2 and a guide spring 9 for engagement with the brake pad, the brake pad including a main portion 13 and a lateral guiding portion 8 extending from the main portion, the lateral guiding portion including a stop surface and a radial extension, the guide spring comprising an end portion for engagement with the stop surface, the guide spring further comprising a guiding channel 20 having a depth for receiving the radial extension.

DE'013 is silent with regards to the edge of the end portion being sloped in the axial direction.

Boebel teaches in figure 2 the use of an end portion 1b of a clip device 3 being sloped in an axial direction.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the edge of the end portion of DE'013 to have been sloped, as taught by Boebel, in order to provide a means of encouraging the clip device to translate in a certain manner with respect to the component with which it cooperates for improved supporting function.

Re: claims 41 and 52. In In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966) the court held that the configuration of a claimed object was a matter of choice which a person of ordinary skill in the art would have found obvious absent persuasive evidence that the particular configuration was significant. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the shape of the hinge portion to have been V-shaped, in light of the case law, depending on the real estate requirements within the brake pad assembly.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Response to Amendment

4. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.
